
University of Iowa is collaborating with JSTOR to digitize, preserve, and extend access to The Iowa Review
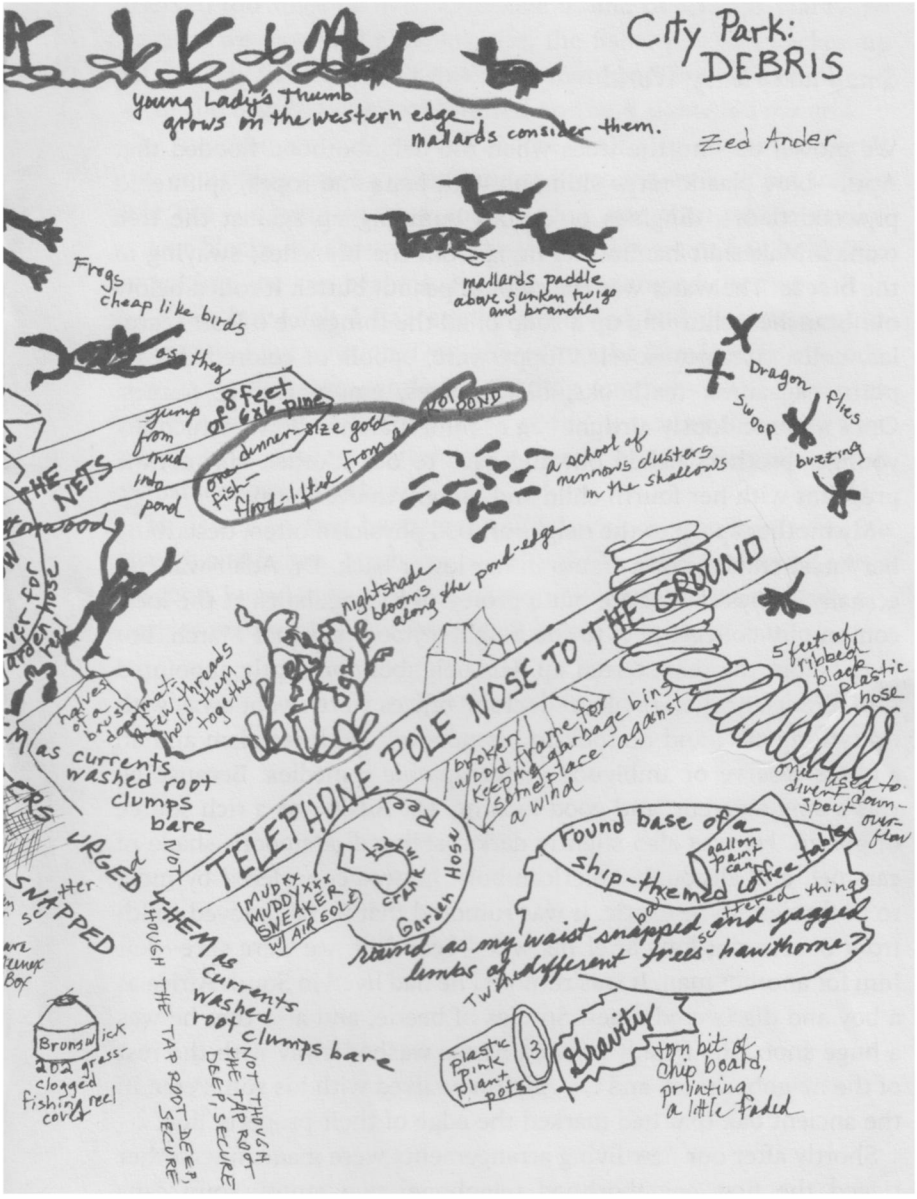
www.jstor.org



City Park:
DEBRIS
Zed Ander
young Lady's thumb grows on the western edge mallards consider them.
mallards paddle above sunken twigs and branches Frogs cheap like birds as they jump from mud into pond 8 feet of 6x6 pine
POLE BOND
one dinner-size gold fish Hard-little from a a school of minnows dusters in the shallows Dragon flies swoop buzzing
THE NETS
nightshade blooms along the pond-edge
TELEPHONE POLE NOSE TO THE GROUND 5 feet of ribbed black plastic hose halves of a brush dropmat few threads hold them together as currents washed root clumps bare broken wood frame for keeping garbage bins someplace against a wind one used to divert spout down-flow Reel
Garden Hose
round base of a ship-themed coffee table gallon paint can round as my waist snapped and jagged limbs of different trees-hawthorne Twinned different things URGED SNAPPED
NOT THEM as currents washed root clumps bare
NOT THOUGH THE TAP ROOT DEEP, SECURE Bronswick
dead grass-clogged fishing reel cover plastic pink plant pots Gravity
torn bit of chip board, printing a little faded