Contributors

BILL R. DOUGLAS of Des Moines is a retired teaching assistant, political organizer for socialism and for criminal justice reform, and delivery worker. He works on the religious history of Iowa and is currently researching the effects of the fundamentalist movement on local congregations. His articles have appeared in Minnesota History, Quaker History, the Annals of Iowa, the Biographical Dictionary of Iowa, and the Wapsipinicon Almanac.

PATRICK J. JUNG is professor of history and anthropology at the Milwaukee School of Engineering. He earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in U.S. history from Marquette University. His research and writing have focused mostly on the history of American Indian societies in the western Great Lakes region. He is the author of The Black Hawk War of 1832 (2007) and, along with Nancy Lurie, coauthor of The Nicolet Corrigenda: New France Revisited (2009). He is working on a book on the history of the War of 1812 in the upper Mississippi River valley.

The State Historical Society of Iowa

The Annals of Iowa is published quarterly by the State Historical Society of Iowa, the Historical Division of the Department of Cultural Affairs of the State of Iowa. The society operates from two centers, Des Moines and Iowa City. A museum, research library, state archives, special collections, community programming, historic preservation, and membership programs are located at 600 East Locust Street, Des Moines, IA 50319, phone 515-281-5111. Publications, a research library, and special collections are located at 402 Iowa Avenue, Iowa City, IA 52240, phone 319-335-3916. The society also operates several historic sites across the state.
