

THOMAS J. STONE was born in Royalton, N. Y., August 13, 1825; he died in Sioux City, Iowa, April 19, 1904. He worked on his father's farm until he was fifteen years of age, attending the district school three or four months each year. He was for a time at Oberlin College where he intended to take a full course, but his health failed, and he came further west, spending some time in surveying in Wisconsin and Iowa, but located finally at Sioux City in 1856, where he engaged in the real estate business. At that time the paying of taxes for eastern land owners was a large part of the business of the real estate offices. He was associated in business with the late Judge A. W. Hubbard, who was chosen to Congress in 1859. Mr. Stone engaged in banking and large real estate enterprises. He was associated and in deep sympathy with John H. Charles, George D. Perkins, C. R. Marks, G. W. Wakefield, and other leading men in securing the erection of the Floyd Monument, the development of the public library, the establishment of the Samaritan Hospital, and the Academy of Science and Letters. The Sioux City dailies during the week of his death paid elaborate and appreciative tributes to his memory.

MARSHALL T. GASS was born near Romeo, Mich., March 12, 1844; he died at Davenport, Iowa, May 6, 1904. After a boyhood spent on his father's farm, he attended the public schools of Romeo, and the State University of Michigan, from which he graduated in the seventies. He became principal of the Fenton, Mich., High School, and was also elected Superintendent of the schools of that city. He was chosen superintendent of the public schools of Flint, Mich., where he served some years. In 1895 he accepted the principalship of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home at Davenport, Iowa. The excellent work which he performed in this capacity gave him an enviable reputation throughout the State. He was instrumental in securing the recent handsome appropriation by the legislature for the benefit of that institution. He worked upon the theory that the homeless children of the soldiers must have the best grounds and buildings, in which work he was progressing very satisfactorily up to the time of his death. He also had secured a new Chapel which is said to be one of the prettiest in the State. His death was a distinct loss to the State of Iowa.

GEORGE CHILDS was born in Bath, N. H., December 15, 1832; he died in Nevada, Iowa, March 9, 1904. He settled in Nevada in 1854. He was elected sheriff of Story county in 1857, and reelected in 1859. He held this position until he resigned to go into the army. He helped raise Co. K, of the 32d Iowa Infantry and was elected Second Lieutenant. During the time he was in the army he served nearly two years in garrison duty at New Madrid, Columbus, Island No. 10 and Ft. Pillow. He participated in the battles of Pleasant Hill, Nashville, Mobile, Tupelo, Spanish Fort and Ft. Blakely. He returned to Nevada in the autumn of 1865. The Representative pays a fine tribute to the excellent qualities of this pioneer settler and soldier. Says Mr. W. O. Payne—"Real ability, kindness and integrity, were notable in all his life, and for them he is and will be affectionately remembered."

WILLIAM HENRY SHEPARDSON was born in Leydon, Mass., December 2, 1823; he died in Lyons township, Mills county, Iowa, March 30, 1904. He came with his father's family from their New England home to Huron county, Ohio, where he grew to manhood. He came to Iowa in 1846, first settling in Dallas county, but in 1847 removed to Mills county, near Malvern, where he afterwards resided. He was a self-educated man, especially in mathematics, geology and music. In 1861 he enlisted as a musician in Co. F, 15th Iowa Volunteer Infantry, where he served for three years. He took part in the campaigns about Vicksburg, and marched with Sherman from Atlanta to the sea. He was intimately associated with public affairs in his township for more than fifty years, and had amassed a large private library, which is said to be one of the best in western Iowa.

---

WILLIAM BUTLER was born in Wayne county, Ind., September 13, 1827; he died at Napier, Mo., May 6, 1904. He came to Iowa in 1855, locating in Harlan township, Page county, where he engaged in farming and stock raising. He became a member of the county board of supervisors in 1861, remaining in that body for several terms. This was at the time the system was first organized. He was a member of the Iowa House of Representatives in 1870 and '72, and also in 1884 and '86. During his service in the legislature he was influential in securing the location of the Insane Hospital at Clarinda. He was a leading business man of Page county for nearly forty years, during which time he built the Page County Court House. He was a man of great force and energy and wielded a decided influence in political affairs.

---

A. W. BUCHANAN was born at Rahway, N. J., February 4, 1848; he died at Ottumwa, Iowa, June 11, 1904. He was the son of Alexander Buchanan, a soldier in the Union army who fell at the battle of Kenesaw Mountain. The subject of this notice settled on a farm in Highland township, Wapello county, in 1870. In 1878 he removed to Ottumwa, where he engaged in a large produce business. He served from 1891 to 1895 as a member of the city council, and in 1899 was elected representative in the State legislature. He was re-elected in 1901 and again in 1903. He made a creditable record in the State legislature, introducing several important measures and serving as a member of some of the leading committees. He won the regard and confidence of his associates in the legislature and of his fellow citizens of Wapello county.

---

MRS. MARIA M. (PECK) FAVILLE was born in Mexico, N. Y., September 18, 1815; she died in Waverly, Iowa, December 28, 1903. For four years she held the office of preceptress in the Cazenovia seminary, N. Y. At the end of that period—1845—she was married to Hon. Orau Faville, a member of the faculty. In 1853 he became president of the Wesleyan Female College in Delaware, Ohio, and Mrs. Faville was associated with him as preceptress of the institution. In 1855 they removed to Mitchell county, Iowa. In 1857 Mr. Faville was elected as the first lieutenant governor of the State; in 1864 he was chosen as the first superintendent of public instruction. In these public labors he was greatly aided by the ability and wisdom of Mrs. Faville. Since 1867 she has resided in Waverly.

---

JOHN FITZGIBBON was born at Ballynat, County Limerick, Ireland, February 10, 1823; he died at Sioux City, Iowa, May 12, 1904. He settled in Sioux City in 1857, which was his home during the remainder of his life. He was a member of the 1st Dakota Infantry in the Union Army, with which he served three years. He became quite distinguished as a railroad builder and contractor. His principal work was on the Milwaukee line, of which he constructed some twenty-five miles in the western part of the State. He also erected many of the most substantial buildings in Sioux City. His life had been a useful one and his loss was sincerely regretted.

---

DANFORTH H. AINSWORTH was born at Cape Vincent, N. Y., March 8, 1828; he died in Des Moines April 26, 1904. He came to Iowa in 1853 and was one of the pioneer civil engineers of the west. For years he was employed in locating the first railroad lines built in Iowa and Nebraska; he Copyright of Annals of Iowa is the property of State of Iowa, by & through the State Historical Society of Iowa and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.