

Chicago newspapers. From 1904-10 he worked for the Des Moines REGISTER and LEADER and the TRIBUNE. Resigning in 1910 on account of ill health he engaged in mining and ranching activities in New Mexico. Returning to Burlington in 1917, he became editor of the HAWKEYE in that year, and its publisher in 1927. When the HAWKEYE and the BURLINGTON GAZETTE combined in 1933, Garrett became the publisher of that paper. From 1925-1938 he was president of the Iowa Daily Press Association.

Actively interested in politics and twice postmaster of Burlington, he was also interested in his local history, as a descendent of David Rorer, a pioneer lawyer. He was vice president of the Old Des Moines County Historical Association, which he helped to form.

---

ARTHUR SCOTT HANFORD, financier, died in Sioux City, May 2, 1941. The son of Richard R. and Edna Chapin Hanford, he was born in Vinton, Iowa, March 2, 1863. Educated in the Vinton High School, he engaged in the produce business in Centreville, Dakota Territory, from 1884-1888. In the latter year he organized the Hanford Produce Company in Sioux City, which before it was sold forty years later had become one of the largest in the middle west. In 1931 he organized and became president of the First National Bank of Sioux City.

An ardent aviation enthusiast, he helped to build the first airport in Sioux City, and later became a director and chairman of the board of the Mid-Continent Airlines.

---

EDWIN A. MOORE, physician and legislator, died May 25, 1941, at his home in Harlan, Iowa. The son of Edwin B. and Elizabeth W. Moore, he was born in Washington County, Iowa, in 1872. Educated in the Harlan, Iowa, public schools, he afterwards taught school five years in Portsmouth, Iowa. He was graduated from the Creighton University medical department in 1901. A Democrat, he was elected to represent Shelby County in 1934 and again in 1936.

---

FRANK A. MOSCRIP, newspaper editor, died in Marshalltown, Iowa, April 19, 1941. Born January 30, 1859, in Rockton, Illinois, and educated in the district schools, he taught school as a young man, while beginning his newspaper career as a correspondent for an Illinois newspaper at the same time. He became first publisher of the Mill-edgeville, Illinois, weekly newspaper, later joining the Chicago TIMES before coming to Iowa to teach school and run the weekly paper at Popejoy. Later still he became associated with the DES MOINES

Copyright of Annals of Iowa is the property of State of Iowa, by & through the State Historical Society of Iowa and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.