

time of his demise; consolidated Wallaces' Farmer and the Iowa Homestead, becoming president and general manager of the company, his nephew, Henry A. Wallace, being the editor until taking the position of secretary of agriculture in President Roosevelt's cabinet and later vice president.

He was also president of the Capital City Printing Plate company, Des Moines, and in more recent years conducted an insurance agency with his son Ross Wallace; married Elizabeth Maud Gibson, in Des Moines, in 1896, who survives him with three children, Ross Wallace, Des Moines, Mrs. A. W. Voorhes, Tucson, Arizona, and Mrs. Foster Farrell, Chicago, Illinois; served as a member of the state board of education; was president of the Memorial Union at Iowa State college when the building was erected, and since a member of the Memorial Union board, a member of the Des Moines Library board, chairman of the membership committee of the Red Cross during World War I, a member of the national board of missions of the Presbyterian church, and a member of the Des Moines Y.M.C.A. board many years; a member of the executive committee of the National Rural Boy Scouts of America, interested particularly in rural boy scouting; also served as president of the Des Moines Pioneer club; a member of the Central Presbyterian church, Des Moines, and a Republican.

---

ARTHUR VYNE WOODWORTH, minister, died December 22, 1947, from injury from a fall, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James M. Gwin, 4309 Tuckerman street, University Park, Maryland; born at Grinnell, Iowa, in 1872, son of the Rev. William Walter Woodworth, who held a Congregational pastorate there, a member of an old New England family; a graduate of Amherst college and Yale university, and ordained in the Congregational ministry in 1899; served as superintendent of a Congregational missionary school in the mountains of Tennessee for eight years and held pastorates at Manvel, North Dak., Harwenton, Conn., West Brattleboro, Vt., East Derry, N. H. and McIndee Falls, Vt., and survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Hall Woodworth, Westminster, Vt., two sons and three daughters.

---

DWIGHT F. WINDENBURG, educator and physicist, died November 14, 1947, at Washington, D. C.; born in 1895 at Lamont, Iowa; served as radio operator in the U. S. navy in 1917-1919 and also in the Merchant Marine afterwards; a graduate in 1921 of Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and received his masters physics degree there in 1923; from 1923 to 1929 taught mathematics in California, at the University of California, the Polytechnic college of engineering at Oakland, and the Long Beach Junior college; removed to Washington in 1929 as a physicist with the Experimental Model Basin in the Washington navy yard; has served there in an advisory capacity since, and at his death was chief physicist civilian supervisor of natural mechanics division of David Taylor Model Basin; a member of the Board of United States Civil Service Examiners for Scientific and Technical Personnel of the Potomac river naval command; and survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Ownby Windenburg; his mother, Mrs. Maude Doak Windenburg, Lamont, Iowa; three brothers, Earle L. Windenburg, Cleveland, Ohio; Ivan Windenburg, Lamont; and Hollis Windenburg, Maynard, Iowa, and two sisters, Miss Edna Windenburg, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Murphy, Wadena, Iowa.

---

JERRY B. SULLIVAN, attorney and judge on the federal customs court of appeals, died at Des Moines, Iowa, April 17, 1948; born at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, January 1, 1859; removed as a child with family to Afton, Iowa; educated there and graduated from the Afton high school; studied law in the office of McDill & Sullivan and admitted to the bar in 1881, moving to Creston shortly thereafter and practiced law there twenty-two years; removed to Des Moines in 1904 continuing in the practice until 1913, when he was appointed by President Woodrow Wilson to the federal court of customs appeals in New York, remaining there until 1939, when he left the court shortly following the death of his wife, the former Martha Groves, returned to Des Moines and retired; at one time served as city attorney of Creston; was a member of the Des Moines school board five years; was Democratic candidate for governor of Iowa in 1903, as an opponent of Albert B. Cummins; a leader in Iowa Democratic party circles for many years, a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Elks, various clubs and the state and American bar associations.

---

EDWARD P. HARRISON, publisher, died at Council Bluffs, February 13, 1948; born at Wittman, Maryland, November 22, 1883, the son of Levi P. and Mary Jones Harrison; came to Oakland, Iowa, in December, 1910, and bought the Oakland Acorn, and established the Harrison Home Farmer, a weekly publication, circulated in farm homes in southwest Iowa and adjacent states, later discontinued shortly prior to World War II; served as president of the Iowa Press association and a member of the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first general assemblies; also mayor of Oakland; married Ethel Brubaker June 15, 1907, who survives him with a son, John M. Harrison, a member of the editorial staff of the Toledo, Ohio, Blade, and former junior editor of the Acorn; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Lou Booth, of Harlan, and Mrs. Helen Booth, of Westfield, New Jersey; a member of the Congregational church, the Masonic orders and the Knights of Pythias, and a Republican.

Copyright of Annals of Iowa is the property of State of Iowa, by & through the State Historical Society of Iowa and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.