

Notice to Readers

LONGTIME READERS of the Annals may notice a change in the paper stock used for the Spring 2022 issue. Due to supply chain issues and in order to ensure timely publication, this issue uses a crisp white stock rather than our standard natural stock. This is a temporary change. We remain committed to using a familiar natural-colored stock going forward.

EACH ISSUE of The Annals of Iowa brings to light the deeds, misdeeds, and accomplishments of our predecessors and shows how they fit into the intricate mosaic of Iowa's past. Its in-depth articles will satisfy even the most serious explorer of Iowa's past.

Anyone with a serious interest in Iowa history will gain valuable perspective from the pages of the Annals. Give it as a gift to a friend or relative. Check to see if your public, school, or academic library subscribes; if they don't, encourage them to do so or, better yet, donate a subscription.

Contributors

ANTHONY J. MILLER, PhD, is Assistant Professor of History at Hanover College in Indiana. He completed his doctorate at the University of Kentucky and his BA and MA at the University of Northern Iowa. His scholarship has been featured in recent publications for The Yearbook of Transnational History, The Diplomat, and Hidden Stories of Chinese American Restaurants.

JUDY THOMPSON is a midwestern girl. Although she grew up in the suburbs of Chicago, she has lived for the past 35+ years in north-west Iowa. When Judy is not working in her studio, she can be found biking and hiking with her husband, Dale, through the prairies, woodlands, and farmland that surround their home.

NATHAN TYE, PhD, is the Assistant Professor of Nebraska and American West History at the University of Nebraska Kearney. He earned his PhD from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. Dr. Tye is currently working on his first book manuscript on hobo labor in the Midwest and West.
