Biographical Sketch of James Bridger, Mountaineer, Trapper and Guide. By Major-General G. M. Dodge, New York, 1905.

It will be remembered that in 1904 Gen. Dodge caused a monument to be erected in Mt. Washington Cemetery, Kansas City, to the memory of James Bridger, at which time his sketch was read by his secretary, Mr. W. N. Jones. This was published in the newspapers at the time. Gen. Dodge has just now published a revised and illustrated edition of this sketch in a neat pamphlet. It is a generous tribute to his friend, the distinguished mountaineer and guide.

Lippincott's Pronouncing Dictionary of Biography and Mythology. By Joseph Thomas, M. D., LL. D., Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott Company, 1901.

Lippincott's Complete Pronouncing Gazetteer, or Geographical Dictionary of the World. Originally edited by Joseph Thomas, M. D., LL. D. New Revised Edition. Philadelphia. J. B. Lippincott Company, 1904.

These large volumes have long been standard works of reference in public and private libraries, schools, colleges and editorial offices—the Gazetteer for fully half a century. They have been frequently revised to keep pace with the changes which are so constantly occurring. These editions necessarily contain a great amount of new material, and the biographical work presents a new feature in fifty fine engraved portraits of illustrious personages of the past hundred years. Formerly each work was in a single volume, which was too heavy for convenient use. In these editions each has been divided into two volumes which have been superbly printed and solidly and handsomely bound. They thus become the amplest single works of reference in the book markets of these times. They are indispensable in every well furnished public or private library.
