

SOME PUBLICATIONS

Economic History of Wisconsin During the Civil War Decade. By FREDERICK MERK. Madison: State Historical Society of Wisconsin. 1916. Pp. 414. Portraits, plates, map. With this timely volume the State Historical Society of Wisconsin initiates a new series of publications to be known as Studies, in which will be issued from time to time monographs of book length.

Mr. Merk's volume is a distinct contribution to the economic history of the entire upper Mississippi Valley region, and it sheds much light on the effect of war upon the industries of a country. The period of time covered extends roughly from 1857 to 1873. The range of subjects discussed is indicated in the titles of the chapters, namely: agriculture, lumbering, mining, manufacturing, labor, banking, trade, railroad farm mortgages, railroad construction, railroad consolidation, the antimonopoly revolt, the genesis of railroad regulation, commerce of the upper Mississippi, and commerce of the Great Lakes. Iowans will find much to interest them in the volume aside from the fact that it is a study of conditions in a typical State of this region. There are frequent references to agriculture, trade, and industry in Iowa during the period under discussion. Some idea of the importance of an Iowa industry which has now largely disappeared may be gained from the statement that "Iowa river towns received and distributed at this time more than half of the total product of the Wisconsin and Minnesota pineries."

The book is well written, copiously supplied with notes and references, and made useable by means of an excellent index.

Illinois in 1818. By SOLON JUSTUS BUCK. Springfield: The Illinois Centennial Commission. 1917. Pp. xxvi, 362. Portraits, plates, maps. This volume constitutes a very valuable feature of the plans of the Illinois Centennial Commission for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the admission of the State into the Union. The book, in the words of the author "is an attempt to portray the social, economic, and political life of Illinois at the close of the territorial period, and, in addition, to tell the story of the transition from colonial dependence to the full dignity of a state in the union."

Chapter one contains a thirty-five page discussion of the Indians and the fur trade in the northern part of the State — a discussion which has many bearings on Iowa history because of the similarity of conditions on both sides of the Mississippi. Then come chapters on the public lands, the extent of settlement in 1818, and the pioneers. Chapters five, six, and seven deal with the economic situation, social conditions, and the political situation — the first two being described partly by the use of quotations from contemporary literature. The movement for admission, the framing of the Constitution, and the events immediately following admission into the Union are described in the remaining chapters.

It need scarcely be said that the volume is a scholarly and painstaking piece of work. More than three hundred footnotes furnish guidance to source material. There are numerous cuts illustrative of events and conditions in the pioneer history of Illinois. A comprehensive index completes the volume, which is attractively printed and bound.

The American Indian's Appeal, by A. B. Freeman; The New Indian Leadership, by John M. Oskison; Higher Academic Training for Indians, by Fred Bender; Absorbing the Indian, by M. B. Hannah, are articles in the April-June number of The American Indian Magazine.

Early American Poetry to 1820: A List of Works in the New York Public Library, compiled by John C. Frank, is to be found in the August number of the Bulletin of the New York Public Library.

Among the articles in the August number of The Quarterly Journal of Economics is one of considerable length on The Use of Private Tokens for Money in the United States, by B. W. Barnard.

Manual Labor Schools in the South, by Edgar W. Knight; On the Death of Stonewall Jackson, by Daniel B. Lucas; The Effect of Bonds and Taxes in War Finance, by Roy G. Blakey; The Black Codes, by John M. Mecklin; and The Open-Market Operations of the Federal Reserve Banks, by R. M. Johnston, are articles in the July number of The South Atlantic Quarterly.

The July number of the Smith College Studies in History contains a monograph on the Trade of the Delaware District Before the Revolution, by Mary Alice Hanna.

Among the articles in the April-June number of The Journal of American History are the following: James Fenimore Cooper, by Charles A. Ingraham; Mount Vernon, the National Shrine of the American People, by Mabel T. R. Washburn; and An American Princess: Elizabeth (Patterson) Bonaparte, Wife of Jerome Bonaparte, Napoleon's Brother, by Eloise Somerlatt. Interspersed among these and other articles are a number of cuts of scenes in the early history of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest.

Continuations of The Delegation of Legislative Power to Cities, by Howard L. McBain; and The Trainmen's Eight-hour Day, by Edwin Clyde Robbins, are to be found in the Political Science Quarterly for September. A supplement contains a Record of Political Events for the year ending July 31, 1917, by Edward M. Sait and Parker T. Moon.

Four articles are to be found in The Journal of Negro History for July, namely: The Formation of the American Colonization Society, by Henry Noble Sherwood; the second installment of The Evolution of the Slave Status in American Democracy, by John M. Mecklin; History of the High School for Negroes in Washington, by Mary Church Terrell; and Our New Possessions: the Danish West Indies, by Leila Amos Pendleton. The last named article is supplemented by some documents.

America's Relation to the World Conflict is the general topic of discussion in the July number of The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Among the numerous articles is one on The Bohemian Question, by Charles Pergler of Cresco, Iowa. The September number of the Annals is devoted to the subject of Justice Through Simplified Legal Procedure.

French Military Theory 1871-1914, by Emile Laloy; Pope's Campaign in Virginia, by R. M. Johnston; Visayan Campaigns: The Insurrection of the Sugar Planters on Panay, by H. V. Bronson; and an unsigned article entitled An Estimate of the Situation are the principal contributions in the July number of The Military Historian and Economist.

Charles H. Cunningham is the author of an article on Spain and the War which opens The American Political Science Review for August. Edward Raymond Turner discusses Opposition to Home Rule. A paper by John A. McIlhenny deals with The Merit System and the Higher Offices. John A. Fairlie presents a study of The Veto Power of the State Governor. The last of the long articles is one by H. Feldman on The Direct Primary in New York State. The Legislative Notes and News, conducted by John A. Lapp, deal with constitutional conventions, legislative activity in Massachusetts in 1916, the New York State police, and a summary of budget provisions. A supplement contains an index to the Review from 1906 to 1916 and to the Proceedings of the American Political Science Association from 1904 to 1913.

Household Manufactures in the United States 1640-1860: A Study in Industrial History, by Rolla Milton Tryon, is a volume of over four hundred pages published by the University of Chicago Press. After an introductory chapter the author discusses the factors affecting household manufactures in the colonies, the status of household manufactures in the colonies, a quarter-century of developments from 1784 to 1809, a year's output of the family factory, the products of the family factory, the transition from family-made to shop and factory-made goods, and the passing of the family factory. Anyone interested in the study of pioneer life in America will find the volume both interesting and valuable. There is some data bearing on conditions in Iowa, but this State was settled too late to come very decidedly within the period of household manufacturing.

WESTERN AMERICANA

The Bulletin of the Indiana State Library for June contains a War Bibliography.

The Roads that Ruled the Old World, by Joe L. Long; and The First Military Highway in America are two articles in the July number of The Road-Maker.

In Special Libraries for June there is a Selected Bibliography on State Constitution-Making.

Among the articles in the July number of The Quarterly Journal of the University of North Dakota are the following: The University in the Service of Society, by John Morris Gillette; and Emerson as a Social Philosopher, by George R. Davies.

A Pioneer History of Kentucky, by R. S. Cotterill, has been published by Johnson and Hardin of Cincinnati.

The Early Explorations of Father Garcés on the Pacific Slope, and French Intrusions into New Mexico, 1749-1752, both by Herbert E. Bolton, have been reprinted in pamphlet form from the volume entitled The Pacific Ocean in History, published by the Macmillan Company.

Number four of the Manuscripts from the Burton Historical Collection, collected and published by Clarence M. Burton and edited by M. Agnes Burton, appeared in July. A description of Peter Lewney's adventures in Detroit in 1757, Daniel Boone's petition to Congress in 1810, an account of the adventures of Henry Bird, and some further documents on early Indiana history, consisting chiefly of letters from the correspondence of William Henry Harrison, make up the contents.

Ceremonies of the Pomo Indians, by S. A. Barrett; Pomo Bear Doctors, by the same author; and The Position of Yana in the Hokan Stock, by E. Sapir, are studies which appear as recent numbers of the University of California Publications in American Archaeology and Ethnology.

Volume six, numbers one and two of the University of Illinois Studies in the Social Sciences, published in March and June, contain a study of The Veto Power of the Governor of Illinois, by Niels H. Debel. The five chapters deal with the general development of the veto power, the council of revision from 1818 to 1848, the suspensive veto under the Constitution of 1848, the veto power under the Constitution of 1870, and summaries and conclusions.

Party Organization and Machinery in Michigan Since 1890 is the subject of a doctoral dissertation by Arthur C. Millspaugh which constitutes a recent number of the Johns Hopkins University Studies in Historical and Political Science. An introduction; party committees, primaries, and conventions, 1890-1904; direct primary legislation; the committee system under direct primaries; direct nominations in operation; campaign management and finance; and conclusions are the headings of the various chapters.

A. MacCorkle; and A Hoosier Domesday, by Frederic L. Paxson.

Special interest attaches at this time to an article on The Beginnings of the Standing Army in Prussia, by Sidney B. Fay, which opens The American Historical Review for July. Carl Russell Fish presents an interesting discussion of The Northern Railroads, April, 1861. Two other articles are: The Confederate Government and the Railroads, by Charles W. Ramsdell; and The Philippines Since the Inauguration of the Philippine Assembly, by James A. Robertson. Some suggestions relative to the duties and opportunities of Historical Scholars in War-Time are offered by J. Franklin Jameson. The documents in this number consist of some letters of Mary Corinna Putnam descriptive of Paris in 1870.

The principal address in the Proceedings of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin at the meeting held in October, 1916, is one on President Lincoln as War Statesman, by Arthur Latham Conger. After a careful study, Captain Conger, contrary to many writers, considers Lincoln worthy of the highest praise for his conduct of the war, even from the strictly military point of view. New Light on the Career of Captain Nathaniel Pryor is the subject of a short article by Joseph B. Thoburn. Other papers are: Reminiscences of a Pioneer Missionary, by Chrysostom A. Verwyst; The Beginnings of the Norwegian Press in America, by Albert O. Barton; The Dream of a Northwestern Confederacy, by William C. Cochran; The Watertown Railway Bond Fight, by William F. Whyte; and Brevet Major Isaac N. Earl: A Noted Scout of the Department of the Gulf, by Newton H. Culver.

ACTIVITIES

Among the most recent enterprises of The State Historical Society of Wisconsin is the launching of a quarterly periodical to be known as the Wisconsin Magazine of History. The first number appeared in September.

The support of the Minnesota Historical Society was increased from twenty thousand to twenty-five thousand dollars annually, by an act of the last legislature.

Among the recent acquisitions of the Western Reserve Historical Society are a large number of papers of General Braxton Bragg, containing material concerning the activities of the Confederate forces under his command.

The Allamakee County Historical and Archaeological Society is continuing to perform an important function by securing the publication in the newspapers of reminiscences and articles of historical interest and value. The secretary, Mr. A. M. May, has been especially active along this line. Local historical societies can render no greater service to their communities than to encourage the writing and publication of the recollections of the pioneers. The time will soon come when it will be no longer possible to secure these personal, first-hand accounts of the beginnings of our counties and towns.

THE STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF IOWA

Dr. Ivan L. Pollock, formerly of the research staff of the State Historical Society of Iowa, has been appointed Instructor in Political Science at the State University of Iowa.

A volume on the history of Old Fort Snelling, by Marcus L. Hansen, is in press. Mr. Hansen is now at Harvard University where he is pursuing graduate work.

Dr. John E. Briggs, Research Associate in the Society, is preparing a biography of William P. Hepburn for publication by the Society.

Professor Louis B. Schmidt of Ames and Mr. Thomas Teakle spent some time in Iowa City during the summer pursuing research work for the Society. Professor Schmidt is working along the line of the history of agriculture in Iowa, while Mr. Teakle completed a volume on the Spirit Lake Massacre.

Dr. Odis K. Patton, who is the author of several monographs published by the Society and who for a number of years has given instruction in political science at the State University of Iowa, has become a member of the law firm of Oliver, Harding, and Oliver of Sioux City. Dr. Patton graduated in June from the law college of the State University.

Under the general title of Iowa and War, the Society began in July the publication of a series of small pamphlets dealing with a variety of subjects relating to military matters connected with the history of Iowa. Since these pamphlets are in no sense a monographic series, bibliographical data and academic citation of sources are omitted. Their contents are none the less based upon critical studies and reliable sources of information. Four pamphlets in this series have been issued: Old Fort Snelling, by Marcus L. Hansen; Enlistments from Iowa During the Civil War, by John E. Briggs; The Iowa Civil War Loan, by Ivan L. Pollock; and Equipment of the Iowa Troops in the Civil War, by Cyril B. Upham.

The following persons have recently been elected to membership in the Society: Miss Alma C. Allender, Bloomfield, Iowa; Mr. W. M. Ball, Iowa City, Iowa; Miss Edith W. Woods, Newton, Iowa; Mr. H. P. Rosser, Des Moines, Iowa; Mr. Geo. H. Bruner, Vinton, Iowa; Mr. F. P. Henderson, Indianola, Iowa; Miss Elizabeth D. Jones, Iowa City, Iowa; Mr. Francis E. Kroulik, Solon, Iowa; Mr. D. J. Palmer, Washington, Iowa; Miss Jeanette Lewis, Rockwell City, Iowa; and Mr. Albert J. Ruopp, Grinnell, Iowa. The following persons have been enrolled as life members: Mr. W. I. Babb, Aurora, Illinois; Mr. A. N. Harbert, Shellsburg, Iowa; Mr. Newton R. Parvin, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mr. Laenas G. Weld, Chicago, Illinois; Mr. Barthinius L. Wick, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mr. H. W. Seaman, Clinton, Iowa; and Dr. S. G. Stein, Muscatine, Iowa.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Iowa State Conference of Charities and Correction was held at Mason City on October 14-16, 1917.

William C. Hayward, formerly State Senator and Secretary of State of Iowa, died in Davenport on September 16, 1917. He was born in New York in 1847, and came to Iowa in 1864.

The twentieth annual convention of the League of Iowa Municipalities was held at Iowa City on September 18-20, 1917. At the same time and place was held a meeting of the Iowa Health Officers Association.

Newspapers during the summer stated that a movement was on foot at Cherokee, Iowa, to remove to a more suitable location the remains of the old log fort built at that place during the Indian uprising in southern Minnesota in 1862.

Senator Henry C. Burgess, a member of the Thirty-second and Thirty-third General Assemblies of Iowa, died at his home in Cresco on March 8, 1917. He was born in Maine in 1846, and came to Iowa in 1864.

Crocker's Iowa Brigade, composed of members of four regiments which served with distinction in many of the important battles of the Civil War, held its nineteenth biennial reunion at Toledo, Iowa, in September.

On September 22, 1917, occurred the death of James Newberry at Strawberry Point. He was born in New York on May 26, 1827, spent his boyhood and early manhood in Ohio, and moved to Iowa in 1855. He was a Representative from Clayton County in the Twelfth General Assembly of Iowa. Mr. Newberry was the father of Senator Byron W. Newberry, who is a member of the Board of Curators of The State Historical Society of Iowa.

Mr. George L. McCaughan, Secretary of the Board of Railroad Commissioners, has the following to say in connection with the map of Iowa recently issued by the Commission:

“The new map shows the location and extent of Camp Dodge and sixty-five changes in railway stations, including new stations established, names or locations changed, and those discontinued. There have been thirty-seven changes in wye connections, twenty-five new post offices have been established, and twenty-five have been discontinued; four names of creeks have been changed, and in Mills County the course of an important stream has been changed by a large county ditch.

“Two short railroads have been abandoned and the track torn up. They are the Atlantic Southern, from Atlantic to Villisca, and the Chicago, Anamosa & Northern, from Anamosa to Quasqueton. Service has been discontinued on the Iowa & Omaha Short Line from Neoga to Treynor, but the company expects to reorganize and operate it as an electric line next year.”
