

FOREWORD

Cynthia Larson

For those unfamiliar with the Iowa Journal of Literary Studies, and for those wishing to submit work to be considered for publication, a few words about the IJLS may be in order.

The IJLS is a journal managed and edited by graduate students who are interested in steering some fine University of Iowa graduate student work into print. We aim to provide a place where graduate students can find the work being done by peers in such diverse departments as, for example, English or Broadcasting, American Studies or Art, the Writer's Workshop or History, and so foster a healthy and stimulating exchange of ideas. We hope as well to encourage the kind of professionalism expected by academic journals.

If you are a graduate student at the University of Iowa (or a recent graduate), the staff of the IJLS invites you to submit articles, essays, book reviews, fiction, poetry, interviews, and art work to be considered for publication. Please consult The Chicago Manual of Style in the preparation of manuscripts. TWO CLEAN copies, preferably not much longer than fifteen to twenty pages, should be sent via campus mail to Iowa Journal of Literary Studies, Department of English, 308 EPB. If submitting poetry, please send no more than six poems. Please include a RETURN CAMPUS ADDRESS with your submission. All submissions are reviewed anonymously, and all work published is copyrighted by the University of Iowa.

We hope you accept our invitation, and we hope you enjoy this issue.
