

MICHAEL ROBINS

Never Get Sober

Say if love doesn't
latch a world down,

primroses partially
salvaged

Cardinals
amending dapples
high amid the trees

The barrow's half-
buried yellow, fall's half-buried orange

Trying as one might
to shutter a season