

JOHN WITTE

Y

This night and no other this cold this memory this darkness beyond the station these stars this crunching of boots on the platform this woman holding a child the distant whistle the gate clanging the child arching his back making with his mother a Y this gasping and shunting these words and none other this train arriving this big sad animal

95