

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS

He has come so far, so near, but sleep bewilders him and he forgets why he is here and where he is.

He stands in the middle of some final room as in a dark woods, waiting for memory to catch up. It won't.

Dawn arrives instead, a granddaughter who leads him by the merest love back to the wrong world.