

THE SMELL OF FRYING FISH

The smell of frying fish
drove me to the fire escape the sun took its time filling the harbor
with ashes
sandpipers moved
they were controlled
by song
I saw my neighbor
the pencil
turn sideways
in front of her mirror
she stepped into her wineglass as the sun brought everything a little closer to raspberries

138

The Iowa Review