

The Supplicant · Stuart Dischell

“Master,
you should not want to be
master.
Much of what is wrong
is in your name.
Do you care?
Some climb like goats
to take to you
on high cliffs.
I have bad habits to break
before slaughter.
Old god,
avenger,
all things elemental,
I would not want to get in your way
or be tested.
You drift like a star without mass,
all energy and will.
You divided the world.
Now unpack your heaven.”
