

But There Are Such Days

I want to be a beloved child go by many names sing on “out-breath” and “in-breath” grasp a nervous rose in my hand rule in my own garden

I will no longer see the nights as the dark ligatures between the days will live in the lush arbor day and night

and at certain times take down the sun and shine upon it