

First Intimation · Vassar Miller

My body and her pleasure no longer clap each other on the back or fall into each other's arms, but greet warily

as two old friends
who have grown fragile, or maybe even hostile,

each carrying a razor
in her purse,

the death seed stirring in flesh folds since birth, to dawdle along my tall and narrow bones.