RECOLLECTED MEMORIES

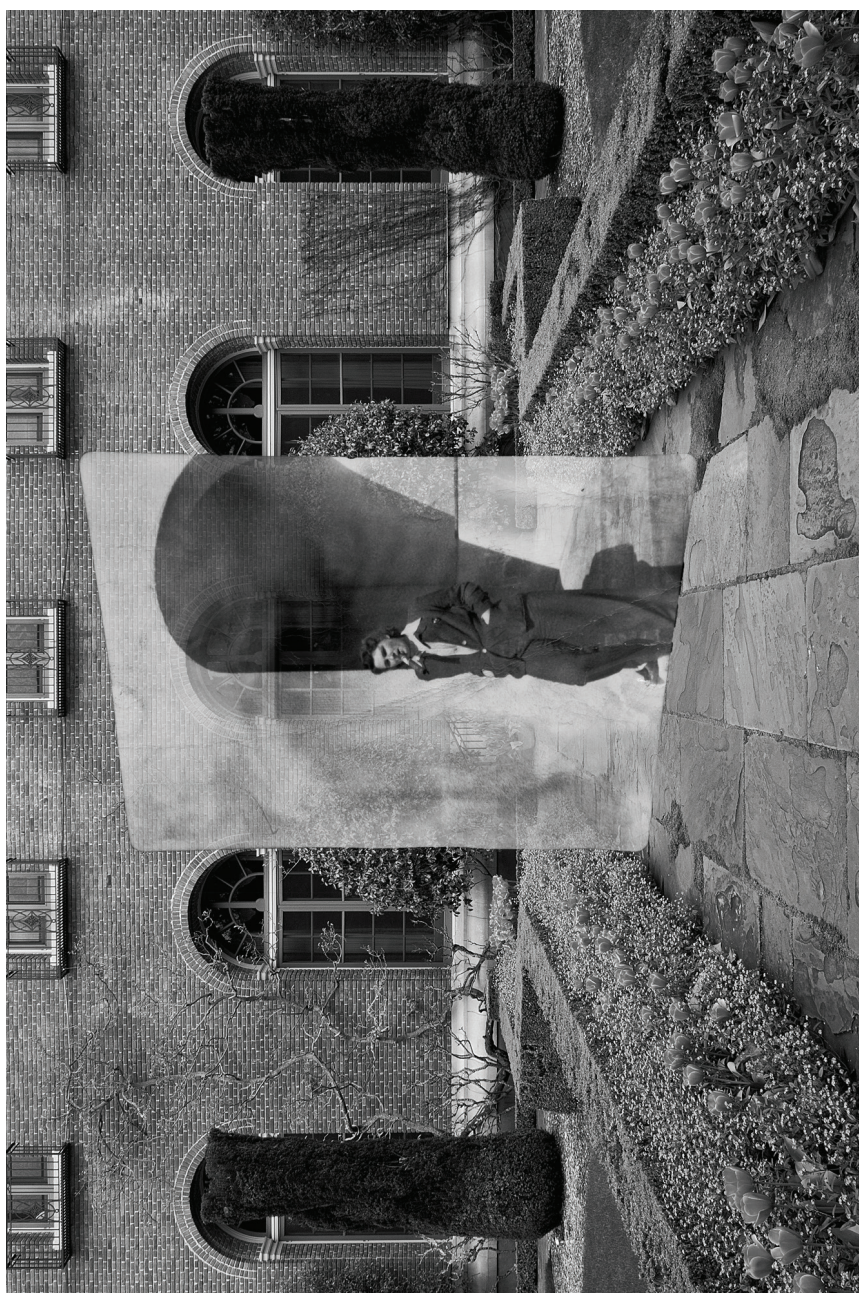

Artist's Note

Through photomontage, Recollected Memories explores the narrative that emerges between subject, space, and time. The series comprises various photographs that I have taken, merged with others from my family's albums. I find myself inspired by the stories that come into focus when we collocate the medium of photography with twenty-first century technological practices, the cultural influence of our country's migration west, and the personal history of family.

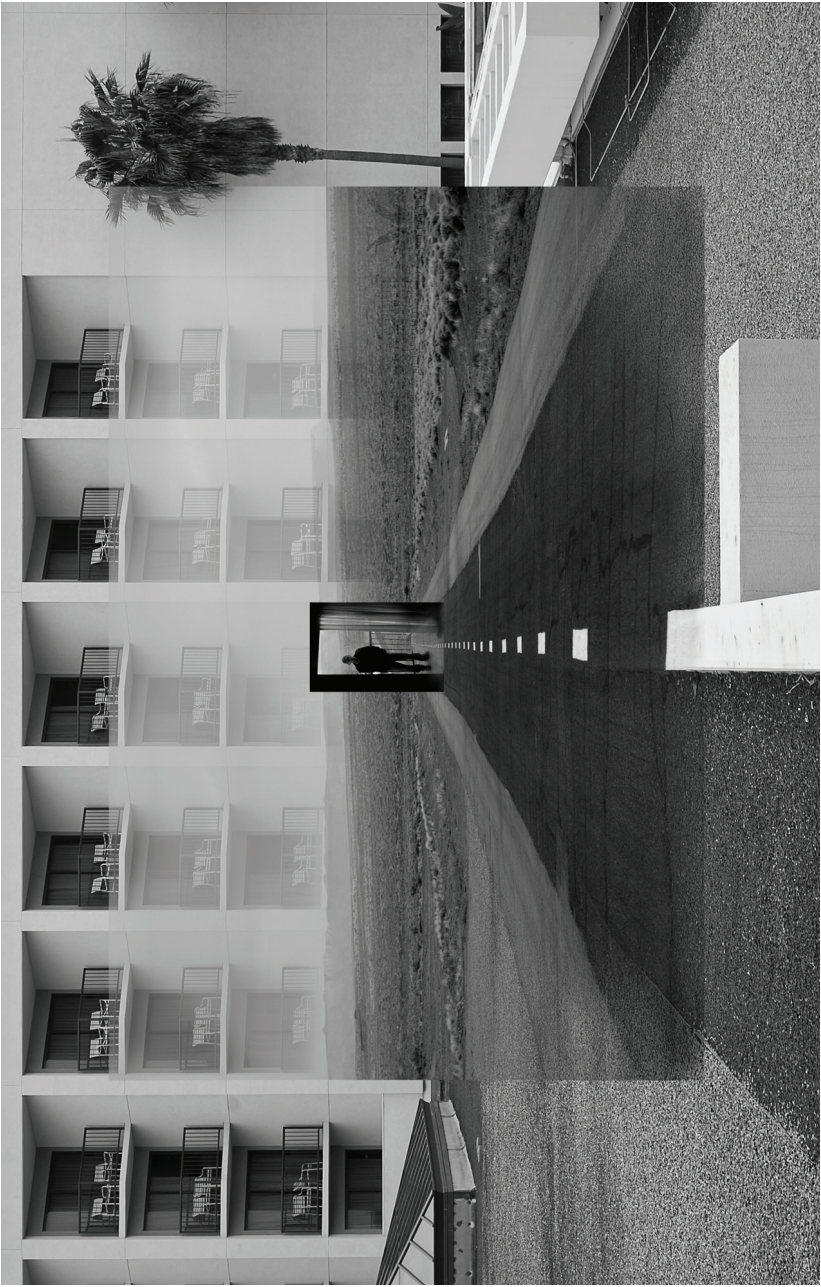

In addition to insights about representation, fabrication, and visual language, each of the blended pieces in this series possesses its own original story. In creating this project, I have found that these are not only my family's stories, but also stories that exist throughout the West and beyond. They are stories of perseverance, pride, struggle, life, and death. They are human stories intertwined with a majestic landscape.
